

arts and sustainability night

arcola
theatre

The arts have historically been a driving force for change, but thus far have been slow to address the issues involved in sustainability.

how Arcola Theatre is driving the eco-cultural frontier, crossing arts and science to tackle climate change...

At Arcola Theatre we have the know-how to help lead the arts in taking real action and to demonstrate the ethical, financial and ecological benefits of those changes.

Join us for an evening of talks and discussion on how we can push for sustainability in the arts and beyond!

600pm Welcome and drinks

630pm How Arcola is driving the eco-cultural frontier
Presentation of Arcola Energy Project by Dr Ben Todd, Executive Director

700pm What does sustainability mean for technical staff?

- o Introduction by David Salter, Technical Manager
- o Presentation by Michael Nabarro, low-energy lighting designer

730pm A challenge for artists?
Presentation by Sebastian Armesto, Director of Simple8 Company and 'The Living Unknown Soldier'

745pm How can the arts be a driving force for change?
Discussion and debate

Sunday
15 June
6pm

(Free entry)

Arcola Theatre

27 Arcola St. E8 2DJ

www.arcolatheatre.com

020 7503 1646

1st - 21st June 2008

This event is part of the Love London Festival